

End User License Agreement

Application license terms

1. Agreement

Effective date: August 9, 2026. This End User License Agreement ("EULA") governs any MindRank mobile or desktop application distributed to you for testing or public use. If no application has yet been distributed to you, this EULA becomes operative when you install or use a MindRank application.

MindRank is currently a working product name and the consumer app is still in development. These terms use "MindRank," "we," "us," and "our" to refer to the operator of the MindRank validation service. Before public launch, replace the bracketed operator/contact fields below with the final legal entity name, mailing address, support email, and governing jurisdiction.

2. License grant

Subject to this EULA and the Terms of Service, MindRank grants you a limited, personal, non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable license to install and use one authorized copy of the application on devices you own or control, solely for personal use and permitted testing.

3. Restrictions

- Do not copy, sell, sublicense, rent, distribute, or commercially exploit the application except where applicable law expressly permits it.
- Do not reverse engineer, decompile, bypass technical protections, extract protected question banks, manipulate timing/scoring, create unauthorized clients, automate gameplay, or interfere with security or fair play, except to the extent a restriction is prohibited by law.
- Do not use the application to harass users, gain unauthorized access, introduce malicious code, or violate law.

4. Ownership

The application is licensed, not sold. MindRank and its licensors retain all rights in the software, brand, artwork, questions, content, and related intellectual property except for user content you own.

5. Updates and testing builds

MindRank may provide updates, patches, beta builds, or replacement versions. Testing builds may be incomplete, unstable, reset progress, or change without notice. We may require an update to continue using online features.

6. Online services and game integrity

The application may depend on online servers for questions, timing, ratings, matchmaking, Clubs, and results. We may invalidate matches or restrict access where cheating, abuse, technical failure, or security concerns materially affect integrity.

7. Data and privacy

Use of the application is subject to the Privacy Policy. Planned game data includes match results, response timing, ratings, rank, rivalry history, and private Club/Party activity. MindRank's game rating is not an IQ score or medical/psychological assessment.

8. Third-party platforms

If the application is obtained through an app store or other platform, that platform's terms also apply. The platform may have additional rights as a third-party beneficiary where its standard terms require that treatment.

9. Termination

This license ends automatically if you materially violate this EULA, and we may suspend access to online services for integrity, safety, security, or legal reasons. On termination, stop using and delete unauthorized copies of the application.

10. Disclaimer and liability

To the maximum extent permitted by law, testing builds and the application are provided “as is” and “as available.” We do not guarantee uninterrupted service, a particular rating or rank, or compatibility with every device. Liability limitations in the Terms of Service apply to the extent permitted by law.

11. Governing terms

This EULA supplements the MindRank Terms of Service. If there is a conflict specifically about the software license, this EULA controls; otherwise the Terms of Service control. Governing jurisdiction: [INSERT FINAL JURISDICTION BEFORE PUBLIC USE].
